Our person-centered philosophy in action

Choices In Community Living, Inc. is a private, nonprofit agency that provides services for people with developmental disabilities in Montgomery, Clark, Madison and Preble Counties.

CICL provides:

- a range of long-term residential options, from 7 days a week, 24 hours a day supervised group living, to individual supported living options
- personalized services supported by a caring and responsive management team and highly trained direct service professionals
- support services, such as semi-independent living and respite services in family homes, as well as in CICL homes
- "Fun-Fit" Adult Day Service Monday-Friday in the community for qualified participants with developmental disabilities
- Adult Day Service Transportation
- shared volunteer program with The Resident Home Association
- advocacy and community education

CICL's professional staff provide services and supports to clients to assist them to develop and to maintain skills they need to live independently in the community.

A commitment of caring service

CICL measures quality through services and supports that are responsive to the needs and interests of clients and families. Our mission-centered policies and procedures exceed federal and state rules and regulations. A governing board representing clients, families and the community provides oversight and a high level of accountability.

Client requests for residential services are coordinated through the offices of county boards of developmental disabilities.

CICL is supported through public funding (such as Medicaid and other Waiver programs), fundraising events, grants, individual and corporate donations. CICL also accepts contributions from wills and estates.

CICL provides services that encourage and support family and community relationships and personal choice.
